BRYAN has said he would do some campaigning in Kentucky, but probably wishes he hadn't. He refuses to talk about Kentucky politics.

WHAT has Governor Stone done that he is mistrusted as the acting chairman of the national democratic committee? It seems to be a very difficult matter for that party to get a leader that all will trust. Too many brands of democracy for unity.

The business men of Cleveland are asserting themselves against the boycott declared there a few days ago by the street car strikers. They have grown tired of the methods of some of the strikers and concluded that some sort of action was necessary. Thus the strikers lost the sympathy of business men because of their lawless actions. That is the usual result when such extreme methods are employed.

AGUINALDO's appeal to the powers for recognition will have no serious consideration, excepting, of course, from the "aunties." They are giving all the encouragement they can to Aguinaldo and doing all in their power to uphold the rebels whom our brave soldiers are fighting in the Philippines. They are urging that the stars and stripes be hauled down and arguing that the achievements of Dewey go as naught.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy. —C. L. Boggs, Stumptown, Gilmer Co., W. Va. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Gentlemen:—It affords me great pleasure to speak in praise of your most excellent medicine. I have suffered quite a great deal from sick headache, the result of sedentary habits and sluggish liver and bowels. Your remedy corrects these troubles and my headaches are stopped.

The September Delineator

Combines an essentially authoritative synopsis of Fashion's latest and most artistic creations, a number of literary features of singular strength and beauty and a variety of original discussions on pertinent social and household themes. In this number appears a delightful story, A Woman's Reason, by Ellen Olney Kirk—a brightly romance demonstrating, incidentally, how satisfactorily affinities may be readjusted. Of special home interest are the domestic subjects: Some new cakes, by Sharlot M. Hall; portraits, by A. S.; the artistic home, by Edna S. Witherspoon. In addition are the regular departments: Social observances, by Mrs. Frank Learned; fancy stitches and embroideries, by Emma Heywood, the milliner, the dressmaker, lace-making, crocheting, knitting. The newest books, etc., etc., a treasury, in fact, of entertaining and improving household information.

Brave Men Fell

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents, at W. F. Peter's drugstore. We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for many years and bear cheerful testimony to its value as a medicine which should be in every family. Typewriting for the Stygians.
The first installment of John Kendrick Bangs' new story, "The Enchanted Typewriter," appears in the current number of Harper's Weekly. In it Mr. Bangs will once more have for his leading characters the shades of those who have passed across the Styx.

The typewriter itself is an aged machine which is resurrected from the rubbish of the writer's attic. In the silent hours of the night he hears the keys mysteriously clicking and finds that the operator is none other than the shade of James Bowdoin, who gives him much humorous and interesting information on affairs in the lower regions.

FOUGHT WITH ROPES

THE LASSO AS A DEADLY WEAPON IN A COWBOY DUEL.

How Two Desperadoes Who Were Skilled in Horsemanship and Adept in Flinging the Lariat Shuffled Off This Mortal Coil.

"I once witnessed a duel with lasso ropes between a Mexican and an American," said Joe Hampton. "It happened about 20 years ago, and it was about as exciting a piece of work as I ever saw. I was foreman at that time for the Seven Up (7 U P) horse ranch in Wyoming, and we were on our way from Sydney, Neb., with a band of vaqueros that had been shipped from the Missouri to Sydney. We had to drive the animals overland to the home ranch."

"Well, I picked up an outfit of men around Sydney, seven Americans and three Mexicans, a tough lot. We started out, and when we got to the Big Cheyenne river, south of the Black Hills, we stopped to let the horses rest for a few days. There was one Mexican, Pedro Gonzalez, about the most ill-natured and most quarrelsome man I ever saw. He fell out with an American by the name of Dick McCall, an all-around bad man. I knew Dick by reputation, and he had a bad record."

"Well, one day at dinner time Dick made some remarks about roping a Gresser down in Texas and hauling him across the prairie until he was worn out. The Mexican answered by saying that man must have been asleep or dead, for you could not rope a live man and do that. Dick jumped to his feet and pulled his gun, and Pedro did the same. I rushed between them and ordered them to put up their guns. The Mexican's black eyes shone like a rattlesnake's when about to strike, but he put the gun back in his belt, and Dick did the same."

"I knew there would be trouble, and how to avoid it was a question not easily solved. I ordered the horse wrangler to fetch up the saddle horses, for I intended to move on that afternoon. The Mexican spoke to Dick, and they walked off to one side and talked in a low tone for a few minutes. When the horses came up, I noticed both men saddled up their best horses."

"They both unwound their lasso ropes and stretched them out side by side. Dick's rope was about 45 feet long and Pedro's about 60 feet. Pedro drew his knife from his belt and cut his rope the exact length of Dick's. Then they coiled up their ropes carefully, and each man led his horse in opposite directions until they were about 100 yards apart. Then they mounted like a flash and rode toward each other."

"I stood holding my horse by the bridle and watched every move. I will never forget the look of hate and murder on the Mexican's face. His lips were apart, showing his white teeth, and a wicked smile seemed to play about his mouth. Dick's jaws were set tight, and a look of mingled fear and rage combined on his savage face."

"They rode slowly toward each other for about 50 yards, watching each other like a couple of caged panthers. Then they made a dash, and both ropes shot out like a streak of lightning. Both men dodged and escaped. In an instant they had gathered up their ropes and begun to circle around and around."

"I could hear the swish of their ropes as they swung them around their heads, each man trying to get some advantage. They charged back and forth, and finally both threw their ropes again. It was a close call for Dick, for the Mexican got his rope over Dick's head, but Dick threw it off before he could pull up the slack."

"In an instant Pedro had gathered up his rope and threw it again and caught Dick around the head and one arm. He drove the spur into his horse and started across the prairie, but like a flash Dick's hand went to his pistol, and before the Mexican could pull him through his head, the Mexican fell to the ground dead."

"But Dick was jerked from his horse with terrible force, for the Mexican had made the end of his rope fast to the saddle horn. The Mexican's horse ran a short distance and then stopped, and before I could get to him one of the other Mexicans had ridden up and emptied his six shooter into Dick's body. He then put spurs to his horse and soon disappeared across the prairie, and that was the last I ever saw of him."

"The other Mexican told me that was the third duel of that kind that Pedro had fought and always got his man."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

A remark made by a 6-year-old boy on a certain occasion was the natural result of confusion in his small mind, but it caused amusement to the bystanders.

The house in which he had first seen the light of day had been torn down to make room for a wider street, and the little boy, holding fast to his father's hand, viewed the ruins with grief and amazement.

THE SAD STORY IT TOLD.

Cass's First Glimpse in a Looking Glass in Fifteen Years.

Shortly after Cass's rescue by General Kitchener, when the latter entered Omdurman, the long-suffering man said:

"During my 15 years' imprisonment I never saw a mirror, and gradually all interest in my personal appearance faded completely away. When it became sure that an expedition was on its way to Omdurman, I began to live again. When at last the cannon began to thunder and the wild cries of the battle penetrated the city, I laid my sword ready, determined should this last hope be destroyed, to put an end to my life. When finally the noise of the cannon ceased and the victor Kitchener stood before me congratulating me on my release, I thought I should suffocate with emotion."

"The next day I made my toilet to an officer's tent and looked in my hand the first looking glass I had seen for 15 years. I looked curiously at my reflection in it and started back. I had gone out into the world a young, active strong man, and the image which now stared at me was that of a sick, hollow-eyed, wrinkled, broken man. Never did all that I had suffered enter my mind with such strength as at this moment, and I wept, wept like a child—the first tears in 15 years."

"The day after I was made a prisoner I saw my wife die, but my grief was too great for the relief of tears. My child was torn from me and died of starvation far away, and I could not weep. I suffered deprivations and ill treatment without a sign of weakness, but now, before this small looking glass, I was overwhelmed. The pain of all that I had lost seemed concentrated in the grief-stricken features reflected in the mirror. At one glance I saw the story of my sufferings."

The American Girl.

In his review of Mr. Charles Dudley Warner's novel 'The Fortune', in the current number of Literature, Mr. W. D. Howells discusses at some length the bibliography of American girlhood.
